DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 25 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wheeler. Wheeler shows an ergonomic bicycle saddle, comprising a rigid frame (B) defining a front end, a back end, a front half, a back half, a first outer side and a second outer side, said frame defining a first support surface at said front end the saddle extending from the first outer side to the second outer side and generally widening from front to back with a cutout (C); a resilient padding layer (E) disposed on top of the frame and having a front end, a back end, a front half, a back half, a first outer side and a second outer side, the padding layer being continuous from said first outer side to said second outer side at said front end of said padding layer, and defining an upper surface; a central groove (f) at least partially defined by inwardly facing sides of said resilient padding layer which are beveled outward toward said upper surface (see Fig. 3), the groove extending to form a space for a scrotum positioned roughly in the longitudinal center of the saddle. The groove having a leading edge defined by resilient padding layer, the groove narrowing as the groove extends along a longitudinal axis from “approximately” the back end of the frame (see Fig. 2). The leading edge of groove extending forward of the cutout and forward to about longitudinally midway through the front half of the padding paddling layer; and wherein the groove and cutout provide an open space for relieving pressure on the pudendal arteries.

Response to Amendment

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 25 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection (see above).

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
